

M. R. DIMOND

A Black Orchid Enterprises
Mystery, Book 6

A Christmas to Remember–In Your Nightmares

Young lawyer JD Thompson's old-fashioned Christmas turned into a Biblical one.

Texas hospitals won't admit his pregnant sister. His friend is homeless and jobless from recent and old trauma. Neither has anyone else to turn to.

Join JD on his sixth zany quest as he learns how to go home by another way.

Praise for the Black Orchid Enterprises Mystery series

Pick up this series and discover a misfit cast of characters will surprise and delight you.

–Storybook Reviews

Many times multiple plots in a story can lead to literary disaster, but this author did a wonderful job.

–The Clueless Gent

Dimond's series characters are delightful.

–Kirkus Reviews

The more I read, the more I loved this book.

–The Plain Spoken Pen

After stints in professional orchestras, law firms, cat rescue, bookkeeping, and technical communication, M. R. Dimond returned to a childhood dream of writing fiction, which has turned out to be about musicians, lawyers, veterinarians, accountants, and cats. Her Black Orchid Enterprises Mystery series, set in her near-native Texas, currently contains six novels with more soon to come. Her short fiction has appeared in magazines and anthologies.

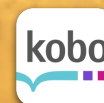

She holds an MBA from the University of Tulsa and lives in the wilderness east of Austin, Texas, with her husband and many foster cats.
